DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 4-8 and 12-17 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention and species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse of Species 1 (Figures 5 and 6, claims 1-3 and 9-11) in the reply filed on 01/07/2008.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means", "comprise" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-3 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The phrase "thread-like form, or anyway of thin and elongated form" and the phrase "depending on the type of stiffening being desired for said zone" are vague and indefinite because the claim(s) include(s) elements not actually disclosed (those encompassed by "thread-like, anyway, on the type"), thereby rendering the scope of the claim(s) unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05(d). It is not clear what structure is encompassed by such language.

5. Claim 10 recites the limitation "and/or second insert" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
6. Claim 9 recites the limitation "in correspondence of studs" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.
7. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

10. Claims 1-3 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kosova (US 4,492,046). Kosova discloses a footwear; comprising a sole (resiliently deformable sole S), said sole having internal stiffening means characterized in that said stiffening means comprises at least a first insert (spring 17, see column 2, lines 38-42) of thin elongated form having a plurality of intermediate bends (rounded segments 24, 24', 28), said intermediate bends defining two or more stretches arranged side by side (longitudinal segments 21, 21', 27, 27'), along the development of a first portion of said first insert, said stretches extending in at least a zone of said sole in substantially longitudinal direction with respect to the sole; and said first insert comprising at least a second portion extending in at least one between the front zone and the rear zone of said sole, and stretches arranged side by side of said second portion extending substantially in a transverse direction (segments 26, 26', 22, 22', 18, 18') with respect to said sole.

With respect to the material of the sole, Kosova discloses forming the sole from deformable resilient material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the sole from molded synthetic material, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

With respect to studs being integrated or associated with the sole, official notice is taken that it is old and conventional to provide studs to the sole of sport shoes to enhance traction. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made in view of the official notice to provide studs to the sole of Kosova to enhance traction.

Conclusion

11. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shown are footwears analogous to applicant's instant invention.
